ORDER

Application for anticipatory bail. The petitioner has come to this Court apprehending that the petitioner may be arrested by the respondents in certain pending crimes. According to the petitioner, such proposal for arrest was with the only intention to vex and harass the petitioner.

2. The learned Public Prosecutor after taking instructions from all the respondents now categorically submits that the petitioner is not required to be arrested in connection with any crime now. The petitioner's apprehension is without any basis. He shall not be arrested alleging commission of any crime committed prior to this date now, submits the learned Public Prosecutor.

3. I take note of the said submission of the learned Public Prosecutor and do hereby make record of the same. In the light of the submissions of the learned Public Prosecutor the apprehension of the petitioner is found to be without any basis. Hence this application for anticipatory bail is dismissed as agreed, recording the submissions of the learned Public Prosecutor.
